PHOENIX, ARIZONA, JULY 7, 1901.

Don't leave the city for mountain or beach without having The Republican accompany you. You will be lonesome without it.

The first fatal street railway accident occurred in Phoenix yesterday. It had been eight years since the trolley system was inaugurated.

THE STREET CAR TRAGEDY, told, and considering the fact that there are no rigid municipal restrictions thrown about the running of street cars, this record of immunity is one of the most remarkable in the United States. A coroner's jury is engaged in trying to fix the blame for yesterday's tragedy, or rather in trying to ascertain if there is any blame.

Some accidents are unavoidable. There was yesterday some complaint because the cars were not provided with fenders, but there are many cities in the United States which do not require street cars to be equipped with fenders, and it is an open question whether the fender is of any utility as a life-saving apparatus. It may throw an obstruction from the rails, and if the obstruction be a human body, a life may be saved. A body though, caught between the rails, is likely to be ground and mangled by the fender, and without it the car might pass harmlessly over it. We believe the coroner's jury having this case in charge will do its work thoroughly and fearlessly, neither favoring the company nor giving way to what may be an unreasonable clamor against the company.

Is there a psychological or meteorological explanation of the difference of taste in the manner of beverages that go ENGLAND. "not inebriated," BE COFFEE HERE. Even the two branches of the Anglo-Saxon race—or, if that is not exact, between the people of England and the United States? It is a fact often noted and confirmed by statistics that the English are fond of tea, and not much

ATTENTION

To physical warnings will often prevent a serious illness. When there are oppressive fullness after eating, bitter risings, bristling headache, nervousness, with physical and mental sluggishness, prompt attention should be given to the condition of the digestive and nutritive systems. Not all these symptoms will occur at once or in any single case, but any one of them indicates a disordered condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

A prompt cure of these conditions will be effected by the timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It heals diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, perfectly and permanently. Many diseases, seemingly remote from the stomach, have their origin in a disordered condition of the stomach, and other organs are cured by use of the "Discovery." It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, or other narcotic. It is a true temperance medicine. "Accept no substitute for 'Golden Medical Discovery.' There is nothing else 'just as good.'" addicted to coffee, while Americans imbibe much coffee and do not greatly care for tea.

Tea and coffee figure largely in imports, for they are consumed enormously in lands that do not produce them, and of the 500,000,000 pounds of tea sent abroad in 1900 about 250,000,000, or one-half, went to the United Kingdom, and only 25,000,000 to the United States. In the former the importation had increased in ten years from 194,000,000, while in this country it scarcely increased at all. But we imported 490,162,000 pounds of coffee in 1900, while Great Britain imported only 25,000,000 at the former date and 29,000,000 at the latter.

The contrast is still more striking when presented in the per capita consumption of the two exotic products. In the United States last year the people consumed 9.8 pounds of coffee and only 1.4 pounds of tea per head, while in the United Kingdom the per capita consumption of tea was 6 pounds and of coffee less than three-quarters of a pound.

It would be interesting to know what there is in temperament or climate to account for this difference, and also what effect it produces, if any, upon national characteristics. It is a nut for philosophers to try their teeth upon.

The talk of annexation to the United States is said to have divided in Canada. Possibly there is a suspicion that United States capital will one day annex the entire British empire and that Canada can go along with the rest without any disturbance.

Nearly 2,000 farmers within thirty miles of Chicago have had their houses equipped with telephones. It is pretty near time for city folks to inquire whether the farmer isn't getting altogether too stuck up.

Londoners are reading hand-books of American humor. They want to make themselves able, by practice, to come in at the right moment with their laughter at the jokes Mr. Depew is going to make.

It is impossible for the habitual skeptic to make up his mind whether King Edward's personal reformations are real or merely press agent inventions.

Mr. Tom L. Johnson has never shown the slightest sympathy with people who insist on disregarding his real name and calling him "Thomas."

A republican newspaper is to be started at Jackson, Miss. If the people in the neighborhood like genuine novelty it ought to succeed.

The weather bureau may as well throw in a thunder-storm prediction now and then. It does no harm and helps to cheer people up.

Bryan seems to have entered a tactical competition with Dowd. Each of them looks with equal care after the box receipts.

It must be said to the credit of the horse that he does not put any conspicuous and foolish band around his straw hat.

At this time of year is a truly remarkable statesman who can attract as much attention as a base ball player.

Any druggist will tell the afflicted the best cure for chilblains and frost bites. No need to consult a doctor.

At least the "Commoner" continues to support Bryan.

THEIR IDEA OF HEAT.

Pictures the Word Suggested to the Party on the Piazza.

A party sat on a piazza discussing the advent of the torrid wave, when one proposed:

"Suppose we describe in turn the scene that our fancy pictures as illustrating our notion of oppressive heat. What do we think of? What time? What place? What conditions?"

The suggestion was received with favor and here are some of the responses: "A new concrete sidewalk at noon, with the sun beating down on it, and your heels sinking in, and the heat reflected in your face, and the air pervaded with the smell of tar."

The desert, with an exhausted caravan struggling to reach a mirage that hovers on the horizon, but doomed to perish of thirst, as perished the man and the camel whose bleached bones they are passing."

"Washing dishes in the kitchen, with the thermometer at 95 out of doors, and a hundred and something within; with your hands so scalded and greasy that you can't lift them to your face to wipe away the perspiration, and your whole being so tired and cross and miserable that you would cry if you were not ashamed to."

"The deck of a becalmed yacht, with a glassy sea and a long slow roll, and the brasswork so hot that it burns your hand; the sun high, the sky cloudless, the sails hanging with not a breath to stir them; the victim prostrate and searish, with no consciousness in the present except of heat and nausea, and no expectation for the future but of sunstroke."

"Standing alone in the middle of a broad, hot field that is flaming with scarlet lilies, with no sound save the notes of the grasshoppers and the locusts."

"Noon on a country road which lies between two barren fields, with no living thing in sight but an ox team lurching slowly on its way in a cloud of yellow dust."

"A night in August, when coolness has not come with darkness; when you cannot sleep, and can barely breathe."

Every wage-earner can secure a home through us at not more than the cost of rent. A small payment down, 70 cents per $100—monthly interest on the balance, and partial payments every six months will buy a comfortable home.
This is a simple, clean-cut proposition. See

VASELINE NO GOOD FOR HAIR.
Dandruff Germs Thrive in it, as Well as in All Grease.

A well known Chicago hair specialist invited the Inter-Ocean reporter to come to his office and see, under a microscope, how the germs that cause dandruff thrive in vaseline. The specialist said that all hair preparations containing grease simply furnish food for the germs and help to propagate them. The only way to cure dandruff is to destroy the germs and the only hair preparation that will do that is Newbro's Hepticide. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Without dandruff, no falling hair, no baldness. Ask for Hepticide. It is the only destroyer of the dandruff germ.
